ECONOMIC BENEFITS OF PUBLIC ART

- Developer receives formal recognition as a participant in the City’s Art in Public Places Program and is included in promotional materials.
- Art can be used in promoting or marketing the development project.

HOW TO INCORPORATE ART INTO YOUR PROJECT

Cost of the art: The City suggests private developers consider a voluntary expenditure of one percent (1%) of the building project budget on works of art or art treatments as part of the project.

City assistance: The City is willing to assist developers in the public art process at the time a permit application is made. At that time a meeting can be arranged with a member of the City staff who will explain the public art program.

Early planning: It is the recommendation of the City that the planning for art work for a project be initiated early in the design process. However, you also may wait until all project approvals have been received before proposing public art for a project.

Type of art work included in the Art in Public Places Program: Paintings, murals, sculpture, inscriptions, stained glass, textile work, terrazzo floors, monuments, fountains, benches, arches or other ornamental structures, carvings, frescoes, mosaics, mobiles, collages, and other works in clay, wood, metal, glass and plastics.

How to select an artist: It is up to the developer to decide how to select an artist for a project. However, if requested, City staff will advise the developer on the established selection methods used by the City’s Art in Public Places Program.

GUIDELINES FOR THE INSTALLATION OF ART

- Site specific art work is encouraged. Ideally, the artist should be involved in the building or site design development at the conceptual stage.
- Exterior sites are encouraged for ease of viewing by the public.
- The work of art will be installed prior to issuance of a certificate of occupancy or other time frame specified in the approved arts plan.
- All financial arrangements are negotiated between the developer and the artists.
- If the artist is required to develop a proposal, he/she should be paid.
- All permanent installations of art work should have a plaque of durable material adjacent to the art work listing the title of the art work, the artist’s name and the date completed.
- Developers are encouraged to consult artists for proper lighting at the site.

Upon the request of a participating developer, staff will assist the developer in obtaining approval of the art installation in the Development Review Committee or the Architectural Review Board.
